Snow cover conditions and avalanche danger: The snow cover in the morning is mainly consolidated and characterized by superficial snowcrusts from melting and freezing, also rather hard on strongly wind-blown ridges. Very warm temperatures during the day. With the daytime heat and sun on very steep slopes and walls, starting from slopes exposed to the east, in extension to the south and west, which are still snow covered up to the north, especially under approximately 2000 m, chance of an increase in natural, damp- or wet-snow avalanches, mainly small and medium in size. Avalanche danger this afternoon is 2 (moderate) on the Alps and in the Canin above 1800 m, 1 (low) below this altitude and on the Prealps.

Forecast for Thursday 14 April 2022, reliability: 80%

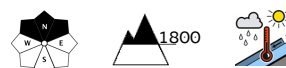

Generally favorable conditions in the morning. Wet-snow avalanches throughout the day.

Weather by OSMER - ARPA FVG:

Clear skies, hazy at times. Warm at high altitudes.

Snow cover conditions and avalanche danger: Generally clear skies. Freezing point will be at 3400 m, with very warm temperatures. The snow cover will undergo a slight reduction in thickness and will gradually tend to disappear on southern slopes, typical of springtime. Until the early morning, the snow cover will be generally stable. With the daytime heat and sun during the morning on very steep slopes and from walls, chance of an increase of wet-snow avalanches, mainly small and medium in size, both natural and triggered, even with the passage of skiers and hikers. This will start from slopes exposed to the east, in extension to the south and west, which are still snow covered up to the north, especially below 2200 m. Avalanche danger will be 1 (low) the morning throughout the territory, increasing to 2 (moderate) during the morning on the Alps and in the Canin area above approximately 1800 m.

Forecast for Friday 15 April 2022, reliability: 80%

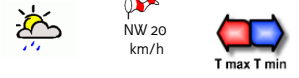

Generally favorable conditions in the morning. Wet-snow avalanches throughout the day.

Weather by OSMER - ARPA FVG:
Clear in the morning, variable to cloudy in the afternoon, with chance of light rain.

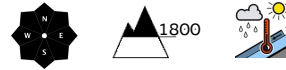

Snow cover conditions and avalanche danger: Cloudy in the morning and overcast in the afternoon with light rain. Freezing point at 2800 m. The snow cover in the early morning will be generally consolidated. With the daytime heat and sun in the morning, and the chance of light rain in the afternoon on very steep slopes and from walls, chance of an increase in wet-snow avalanches, generally small and medium in size, both natural and triggered, even with the passage of skiers and hikers. Avalanche danger will be 1 (low) in the morning throughout the territory, increasing to 2 (moderate) during the morning on the Alps and in the Canin area above approximately 1800 m.

Forecast for Saturday 16 April 2022, reliability: 80%

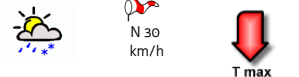

Generally favorable conditions in the morning. Wet-snow avalanches throughout the day.

T.average 2000: 2 °C

Weather by OSMER - ARPA FVG:
Mostly sunny or slightly cloudy in the morning. Variable with some thunderstorms in the afternoon.

Snow cover conditions and avalanche danger: Generally variable skies with chance of thunderstorms. Freezing point at 2200 m. In the morning, the snow cover will be generally consolidated. During the day, with a rise in temperature, and due to the effect of the precipitations, even snow at high altitudes, chance of several natural damp-snow avalanches, generally small in size, on very steep slopes and from walls. Avalanche danger 1 (low) throughout the territory.
